Promotion Scheme (RIPS 2019) has benefited tourism industry and Rajasthan government has given tourism a status of industry.

He said that it is strange that Centre's budget is only double than Rajasthan whereas it has to allocate budget to other states as well.

Guest of honour, Regional Director (North), Ministry of Tourism, Government of India, Mr R.K Suman said, "Tourism department of GOI promotes domestic tourism, which has increased after corona. Centre has made several kind of policies to promote domestic tourism. We are supporting ADTOI to organise this conclave and also meet the stakeholders and we will support wherever possible."

The Chairman of the Rajasthan Chapter, Mr. Syed Wali Khaled pointed out that, "The domestic tourism has brought in the much-needed respite to the industry that suffered immensely during the pandemic. Yet, tourism service providers couldn't benefit much from the surge in the Domestic travellers owing to their not being well equipped to connect to the demands of the Domestic Travellers'."

On this occasion, Jaipur Heritage Mayor, Munesh Gurjar was present as guest of honour. President of ADTOI, PP Khanna, Vice President ADTOI, Ashish Sehgal also expressed their views.

Earlier, the conclave commenced with a lamp lighting ceremony by the dignitaries. The conclave concluded with valedictory note by Mr Ashish Sehgal, VP ADTOI, Conclave Chair and vote of thanks by Mr Mahendra Singh.

EMBRACING THE BEAUTY OF MONSOON

While many people prefer to stay indoors during the rainy season, monsoon adventure tourism offers a unique and thrilling experience for those seeking adventure and excitement even in wet weather conditions. By keeping this in mind we explored the three beautiful ASIAN countries Thailand, Indonesia and Bhutan.

It's important to note that monsoon adventure tourism involves certain risks, such as increased water levels, slippery terrains, and unpredictable weather conditions. Therefore, it is advisable to engage in these activities with trained professionals, follow safety guidelines, and be aware of the local weather forecast before planning any adventure during the monsoon season.

INDONESIA

Indonesia, renowned for its breathtaking natural landscapes and cultural heritage, becomes a playground for adventure enthusiasts during the monsoon season. The country offers an extraordinary setting for thrilling escapades. Here we discovered the hidden gems and remarkable experiences that await intrepid travelers in this tropical paradise.

The monsoon season in Indonesia usually occurs from September to April. As a country that has a monsoon season, Indonesia needs to offer a travel experience that goes along with it. Tourists can do several attractive adventure packages during the monsoon season in Indonesia: rafting, river tubing, ATV riding, and off-roading. Luckily, several destinations in Indonesia have rivers that can be utilized for water tourism activities. Rafting and river tubing are recreational water sports that follow the river current by using rubber rafts. The rainy season makes these river-based activities even more fun. The strong currents make the river water discharge higher, making it suitable for rafting and river tubing activities. Likewise, ATV riding and off-roading activities will be more exciting if done on muddy roads with plenty of mud splash to make it more fun.

Tanjung Puting National Park is a national park in Indonesia located in the southeastern part of Pangkalan Bun city in the province of Central Kalimantan - one of the Indonesian parts of Borneo island, the largest island in Asia. The national park is famous for its endangered orangutan conservation and is considered one of the places that offer an exceptional monsoon experience. Here you will experience an unforgettable river cruising experience into the deep lush of Borneo's famous tropical rainforest. The river cruise would usually take two days on a riverboat as the transportation and also accommodation. The boat cabin is fully equipped with air conditioning and other guest facilities. Prepare your camera and smartphone to capture the exotic diversity of tropical wildlife in the rainforest. Here you will witness the majestic orangutans, proboscis monkeys (nasalis larvatus), an abundance of bird species, and other tropical wildlife in their amazing indigenous habitat while enjoying chilling in the cozy river boat and a little trekking through the rainforest. In Yogyakarta, in the southern central part of Java island, there are also exciting adventure activities during the monsoon. There is a Lava Tour Merapi tour package on the active volcano of Mount Merapi. Lava Tour Merapi is a tourist activity on the slopes of Mount Merapi using 4WD vehicles, including Jeeps, Land Rover, Land Cruisers, and several other 4WD models. Tourists will be taken on a breathtaking mountain ride journey along the slopes of Mount Merapi while stopping at several places of interest to take photos, mostly at historical volcanic eruption sites. The 4WD vehicles drivers will drive quite fast but in safety standards in some river areas just to make the river water splash on the tourists. Be ready to get your clothes a little soaked because that's where the real fun is.

Wisnu Sindhutrisno Director of Tourism Marketing for the Asia Pacific Region Ministry of Tourism and Creative Economy, Republic of Indonesia

"All the legitimate tour operators in Indonesia are ready to provide excellent service for travelers at any time of the year to all of Indonesia's popular tourist destinations. Just be sure to check their safety procedures and other related information. For example, Adventure Indonesia, as one of the Indonesia Tour Operators & DMC, always conducts a safety briefing procedure before any adventure activities during the monsoon season and explains what guests must do if unwanted things happen. They also provide raincoats, first aid kits, and medicine; prepare certified medical standby for groups of tourists; and also coordinate with the nearest clinic/hospital if carrying out tourism activities."

While focusing on safety and security he added "Safety and security play a significant role during monsoon season. Tour operators and guides must conduct a safety briefing before any adventure activities, including during monsoon season. Tour operators must also carry out periodic checks and maintenance of all their equipment to ensure the security and safety of tourists. Tour operators also need to make a safety analysis of every activity and place tourists visit to know what to do if something unwanted happens, particularly in remote or less-developed areas. For example, knowing where the closest hospital/clinic is and the medical history of tourists is also essential. However, usually for remote and vulnerable areas, the government and local tourism managers will issue specific safety warnings so that tourists can be more vigilant during their trips."

THAILAND

When it comes to Thailand, most people tend to think of popular destinations like Bangkok, Pattaya, and Phuket. However, these well-known areas are just a fraction of what Thailand has to offer. With 77 provinces in total, the country is brimming with unexplored gems waiting to be discovered. It is time for travelers to venture into new destinations, where they can truly experience the essence of Thailand through its nature, culture, and people. The upcoming monsoon season presents a fantastic opportunity to explore Thailand's diverse landscapes.

Many destinations in Thailand will provide spectacular experiences during the monsoon season from serene natural landscapes to captivating cultural encounters, travelers can immerse themselves in the beauty and authenticity of Thailand. It is an invitation to step off the beaten path and embrace the hidden treasures that await.

Kanchanaburi and Nakorn Ratchasima are two provinces that I would like to suggest. These are MUST-VISIT destinations for nature lovers, especially in the monsoon season. Kanchanaburi is accessible by road or rail, only two hours from Bangkok. It is a popular resort town. Picturesque and worthy of a visit in its own right, it is frequently visited as a base of operations for exploring the many cultural, natural, and historical attractions in the surrounding countryside. The town itself is a place to relax, watching the water from the banks of the river, inside a raft house, or from a riverside restaurant. Many visitors like to rest along the river with a cold drink and a good book. While some visitors come here for just a couple of days, they end up staying for weeks to explore all the attractions, including spectacular waterfalls, lush forests, and three of Thailand's largest reservoirs. Popular activities for visitors include white water rafting, elephant trekking, and golfing. A new attraction that has just come up is the Skywalk Bridge, which offers a different angle view of Kanchanaburi to tourists. Nakorn Ratchasima, also known as Khorat, is the biggest province in Thailand in terms of space. It is home to the first Thailand World Natural Heritage Site and the most popular national park, "Khao Yai." This is the best option for mammal watching. Apart from Kui Buri National Park, Khao Yai is the next best park in the country where it is relatively easy to encounter elephants with a bit of luck. Some other often-seen mammals include northern pig-tailed macaques, barking deer, sambar deer, gibbons, porcupines, and civets. Other more elusive species seen from time to time are sun bears, Asian black bears, gaurs, otters, dholes, and jackals. Historically, Khorat province was an important area for thousands of years, first as the site of several ancient prehistoric communities and later as an important site of Hindu civilization in Thailand. Pimai Historical Park is also considered one of the spiritual homes of the Thai silk-weaving industry. Those interested in culture will enjoy shopping for some of the country's best cloth.

Siriges-A-Nong
Trirattanasongpol,
Director, Tourism
Authority of Thailand
New Delhi Office

while focusing on ensuring a secure journey for adventurers in off-the-grid locations said "Thailand has been running its tourism industry for more than 60 years, and therefore, our safety and security systems for tourists have been developed over the years. Normally, the tourist attractions in Thailand are under official supervision. We have tourist policies in most tourist areas, and service providers must also follow safety standards related to their services, which are regularly checked by relevant authorities. In the tourist areas, officials, tour guides, and local operators are well-trained in first aid and rescue, whether in popular destinations or remote areas. In case of serious incidents, Thailand has medical evacuation services available in all areas.

For adventurers, we recommend exploring our precious nature in National Parks, where officials will look after them and provide proper instructions. Under the supervision of our officials, we can rest assured that tourists will travel safely. The same rules apply to other natural attractions—following instructions, cautions, rules, and regulations will keep you safe from all risks, especially during the monsoon season."

BHUTAN

Bhutan's monsoon season, a spectacle celebrated by adventure enthusiasts, captivates with its unique charm. This is a time of breathtaking landscapes and exhilarating experiences. Traverse vibrant forests, tread on less trodden trails, and embrace the allure of hidden gems like Bumthang, Punakha, Phobjikha Valley, and Haa Valley. Mr. Dhradul shed light on ensuring a secure journey for adventurers and stated "While the monsoon season presents opportunities for uncommon adventure sports like trekking, hiking, rafting, and many other thrilling activities, Bhutan prioritizes the safety and security of visitors engaging in such sports. All service providers must be certified and licensed by the Department of Tourism (DOT) in Bhutan to offer these adventurous activities. The DOT ensures that they are thoroughly trained and knowledgeable about safety procedures, weather patterns, and geography. Additionally, a trekking permit is required for certain trekking routes, such as the Snowman Trek. This allows the relevant authorities to monitor individuals and their whereabouts more easily. The DOT also places a strong emphasis on providing consistent training and certification programs for tour guides, tour operators, and other stakeholders. Through these programs, participants in adventure activities can enhance their knowledge and skills, becoming better equipped to handle various challenges and emergencies. Furthermore, validated and licensed service providers in Bhutan must ensure that proper safety gear for adventure activities during the monsoon season is provided to guests engaging in these activities."

ATM: Working Towards Net Zero

Arabian Travel Market 2023 sees 29% year-on-year growth in attendees as Middle East's largest travel and tourism exhibition sets new record.

More than 40,000 people – including 30,000 visitors – attended the 30th edition of Arabian Travel Market (ATM), which concluded last week in Dubai, UAE.

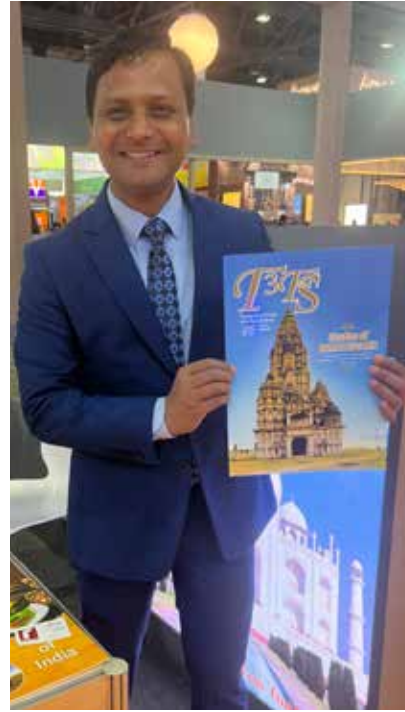

This not only represents a year-on-year increase of 29% in attendees compared to 2022, it also represents a 5% increase over 2019, establishing a new record for the show, demonstrating that the Middle East's travel and tourism sector is booming.

In line with ATM 2023's theme, 'Working Towards Net Zero', more than 2,100 exhibitors and representatives from over 150 countries gathered at Dubai World Trade Centre (DWTC) to explore how the industry can ensure sustainable travel for future generations.

Danielle Curtis, Exhibition Director ME, Arabian Travel Market, said: "My colleagues and I are thrilled that so many tourism professionals were able to join us in Dubai to celebrate the 30th edition of the show and shine a spotlight on our sector's ongoing journey to net zero. The fact that we witnessed record attendance at ATM 2023 is extremely encouraging and a strong indication that the Middle East's travel industry is once again in excellent shape."

To mark three decades of ATM, there were a number of special events on the agenda during the four-day exhibition. Hilton won the inaugural Sustainable Stand Award. Selected by an independent panel of judges, the hospitality brand was chosen for its decision to use a local supplier in the creation of its stand as well as its commitment to repurposing materials as much as possible over the coming three years. Hilton also used a carbon calculator to measure the carbon footprint associated with its involvement in the show and has taken steps to mitigate this output.

The prestigious Pearl Award was also created exclusively for the 30th edition of ATM and awarded to Colm McLoughlin, Executive Vice Chairman and CEO of Dubai Duty Free, for his outstanding contribution to the travel and tourism sector in the UAE. McLoughlin began his career at Dubai Duty Free in 1983 and has since helped to transform the organisation into a $2 billion company.

Moderated by Eleni Giokos, Anchor and Correspondent CNN, the show's opening session delved into a climate change debate as tourism heads took to the Global Stage. The prestigious line-up of speakers included Sujit Mohanty, Regional Division for the Arab States, United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction (UNDRR); Dr Abed Al Razzaq Arabiyat, Managing Director, Jordan Tourism Board; and HE Walid Nassar, Lebanon's Minister of Tourism.

ATM 2023 was held in conjunction with Dubai World Trade Centre, and its strategic partners include Dubai's Department of Economy and Tourism (DET) as the Destination Partner, Emirates as the Official Airline Partner, IHG Hotels & Resorts as the Official Hotel Partner and Al Rais Travel as the Official DMC Partner.

AlUla's Jabal Ikmah Recognized for its Documentary Heritage

The Royal Commission for AlUla (RCU)'s efforts to conserve the region's documentary heritage have been acknowledged with the listing of Jabal Ikmah on UNESCO's Memory of the World Register.

The spectacular mountain and its sandstone canyons feature more than 300 historically significant carved inscriptions, most of which date from the second half of the first millennium BCE. The site features the largest collection of inscriptions recording the ancient Dadanite Kingdom's religious rituals, daily activities, and relations with neighboring peoples.

As part of its role in delivering Saudi Arabia's Vision 2030, RCU is heavily investing in the study and conservation of sites such as Jabal Ikmah, an open-air library situated in the world's largest living museum. These efforts to enhance the world's understanding of Jabal Ikmah, while improving visitors' access in a sustainable way, have contributed to this public affirmation by UNESCO of the magnitude and international significance of AlUla's documentary heritage.

José Ignacio Gallego Revilla, Executive Director of the Kingdoms Institute, Archaeology, Heritage Research, and Conservation Department at the Royal Commission for AlUla, said: "The significance of Jabal Ikmah's inscriptions transcends regional boundaries to reach the level of global relevance, in particular as part of the evolution of Old Arabic languages and dialects. Their authenticity and integrity, both for the information preserved about ancient societies as well as the conservation of the site, bring together the essentials that make this place unique for the Memory of the World as the chronicle of a lost time through the largest number of inscriptions in an Ancient North Arabian script."

As a crossroads on the incense and pilgrimage routes, the AlUla oasis was a hub of commercial and cultural exchange. It hosted merchants of myrrh, frankincense, and other precious commodities. This cultural richness propelled the growth of settlements, including Dadan. The Dadanite Kingdom flourished and developed its own alphabet form of the South Semitic writing system. The Dadanites then recorded their history through petroglyphs carved into the sloping red and yellow sandstone rocks of AlUla. The greatest concentration of inscriptions is sheltered in the gorge of Jabal Ikmah, which is characteristic of AlUla's jagged landscape formed by tectonic movements that date to the opening of the Red Sea 30 million years ago.

Many of Jabal Ikmah's inscriptions reflect a variety of subjects such as rituals, kings, animals and agriculture, key to the story of AlUla's past. Conservation of such landmarks is central to RCU's vision for the future of AlUla, which emphasizes the region's cultural heritage as both a beacon for tourism and a springboard for innovation and economic benefits that raise the quality of life for the community.

The listing builds on RCU's existing partnership with UNESCO. RCU's global network of partners for culture, which also includes ICOMOS, the Louvre Museum and the French Agency for the Development of AlUla (Afalula), plays a vital role in the regeneration of AlUla County as a leading global destination for cultural and natural heritage.

RCU is establishing the Kingdoms Institute as a global hub for archaeology, heritage research and conservation. Currently active as a research organisation, the institute will have a permanent base in the Dadan district of AlUla, a site that by 2035 is expected to be a prime destination for two million visitors a year attracted largely by its rich heritage.

New Zealand's Hawke Bay: 12th Great Wine Capital of the World

Hawke's Bay was named a Great Wine Capital of the world, setting it alongside eleven other prestigious wine regions such as Bordeaux (France), Napa Valley (USA), Bilbao (Spain) and Adelaide (Australia)

The bid was led by Hawke's Bay Tourism, on behalf of a working group that also included Hawke's Bay Wine Growers, Hastings District Council, Napier City Council, Hawke's Bay Airport and EIT/TePūkenga.

Admission to the Great Wine Capitals programme, as the 12th Capital worldwide, comes after a stringent selection process that looks at a region's winegrowing industry, its history, its wine tourism, educational opportunities, business, and travel, as well as the cities and region itself.

In announcing the news, Hawke's Bay Tourism CEO, Hamish Saxton said the significance of being named a Great Wine Capital of the world is a remarkable milestone for the region.

"Hawke's Bay's inclusion as one of just 12 Great Wine Capitals of the world is of regional and national significance. It is recognition that Hawke's Bay wines are among the world's best, and that our nation's wine growing industry, while still young, offers quality to rival the world's oldest. We have long known that Hawke's Bay, as New Zealand's Food and Wine Country, stood out for its winemaking. This new achievement gives Hawke's Bay a unique positioning in New Zealand and the world. The climate, unique soils and the innovation of so many talented individuals, have come together to deliver an accolade the region wholeheartedly deserves. It is a true legacy for the region and will continue to deliver benefits to industry, education, business and tourism for the years to come. Becoming a Great Wine Capital will also give a significant boost to the region's post-cyclone recovery, particularly with the wine industry already generating an estimated $300 million direct revenue to the Hawke's Bay economy and contributing $156m to GDP. The accolade will further increase Hawke's Bay's global recognition and will give it access to additional expertise, resources, and support from the best of the global wine and tourism industries."

Hamish Saxton, Chief Executive of Hawke's Bay Tourism said: "Cyclone Gabrielle may have dealt us a blow, but this recognition shows that Hawke's Bay is still the top-quality wine destination it always was. The Great Wine Capitals Global Network is already providing fantastic support and information to those wineries impacted by the cyclone. Most of our wineries and cellar doors are now back open and keen to welcome manuhiri. So, whether you're a wine buff or just like a nice glass with your meal, Hawke's Bay is the spot for you."

Jo Collins, President of the Adelaide, South Australia Great Wine Capitals Steering Committee said: "To be a member of the Great Wine Capitals Global Network requires a Capital to possess something truly 'great'. Above average. Excellent in a global context. We are thrilled to welcome Hawke's Bay and the twin cities of Napier and Hastings to our esteemed network. The quality of the wines from this region, their international recognition and unwavering commitment to excellence in grape and wine production, sustainable tourism and education was evident and saw them unanimously voted in by our existing 11 network members. A key strength of the network is that members do not see themselves as competitors, but rather working together with a spirit of cooperation to support and learn from each other through common challenges and opportunities. And importantly continuing to lift the bar in terms of the global wine and tourism offering. The arrival of this beautiful region of New Zealand will further enhance the quality and excellence of our network, and open new areas of co-operation. As the representative of Adelaide, South Australia to the network, I eagerly anticipate the opportunity to work together with Hawke's Bay to seize opportunities and address challenges within our respective wine sectors. I have personally witnessed the incredible outcomes that arise from the exchange of knowledge, ideas, and experiences, and I am excited about the potential for mutual growth and success. Becoming a Great Wine Capital is also welcome recognition for the people who work in the industry."

Hawke's Bay Wine Chair Sally Duncan said: "The passion and persistence of our wine community and this special place at the bottom of the world has propelled Hawke's Bay to sit alongside the best in the world."

Blessed with some of the best wine-growing soils and climates in the country, Hawke's Bay produces top quality wines that can stand tall with the greatest wine regions in the world, producing more than 40,000 tonnes of grapes and with more than 200 vineyards, 125 wine producers and more than 30 cellar doors.

The region also offers a wonderful tourism experience for those with a passion for the grape. Whether it's the allure of long vineyard lunches, bike tours between cellar doors or a chance to stock up your wine collection, Hawke's Bay has become a go to destination for domestic and international visitors alike.

Bakstage Gourmet's menu offers a diverse

In the salad section, the 'Mediterranean Feta Salad with Prawns' stands out as a highlight. The main course presents an array of tempting dishes, from the mouth-watering 'Polenta Steak' to the aromatic 'Gosht ki Dum Biryani'. To satisfy your sweet tooth, the 'No-baked Lotus Biscoff Cheesecake', 'Nolen Gur', and 'Truffle Panna Cotta' are exceptional choices.

In fine weather, this vibrant rooftop transforms into Le Jardin, a restaurant dedicated to exciting culinary experiences. An urban paradise where tomatoes and strawberries take pride of place under the direction of Executive Chef William Béquin, working in tandem with Arnaud Donckele.

A VIBRANT DECOR

In this 650 square-meter sky garden, chic, warm shades of red dance with white in a custom-made decor designed to celebrate refinement and the French art de vivre.

Walkways lend a bucolic air, trimmed with greenery, Crocosmia flowers that flutter in the breeze, the delicate corollas of Hummingbird Fuchsia and refined purple-hued Kadoma shrub roses... In a delightful surprise, an herb garden with multiple varieties of thyme (wild, lemon), coriander and fragrant basil keep company with tomato vines and strawberry plants.

A spirited decor that blends into the gastronomic experience.

AN ODE TO FRESHNESS

Green Zebra, Pineapple, Black Krim, Olivette, Roma... heirloom tomato varieties of exceptional quality are grown in southwestern France by Christophe Latour and, more surprisingly, in the capital by the market gardener Plantation Paris, two producers who are committed to respectful and sustainable agriculture. Freshness and refinement are on the menu and the Chefs' recipes charm with their creativity: "tuna tataki with yellowtail, coeur de pigeon cherry tomatoes, mint and shiso" or a "colourful cherry tomato tart with pineapple tomato and basil sorbet", a must-try recipe with an exquisite blend of textures. Some other main courses play it a little wild, for example "stuffed cocktail tomatoes with chicken and confit lemons, olives and marjoram" or "French toast, grilled and caramelized with tomato and Iberian bellota, served with Green Zebra and fennel sorbet".

Strawberries, too, make an unexpected appearance in chilled "Marmande tomato soup served tableside with strawberries, watermelon and burrata", but it is on the dessert menu that their rich flavours and suaveness come into their own. Created by Pastry Chef Maxime Frédéric and his team, these treats are exquisitely light. Among them: strawberry tart, vacherin and creamy Italian ice-creams served in refreshing coupes for a moment of pure gourmet delight.

An enchanted Jardin that promises blue skies, sunshine and happiness all the way.

How to stay chic even when it is pouring outside

As the monsoon season approaches, it's time to revamp our fashion and makeup choices to look effortlessly stylish even when the rain is pouring outside.

Monsoon fashion is all about finding the perfect balance between practicality and fashion-forwardness, ensuring you stay dry while turning heads with your impeccable style. We will delve into the world of monsoon fashion and makeup, exploring the latest trends, brand recommendations, and effective techniques to achieve a chic look regardless of the weather conditions.

Monsoon Fashion Trends:

Waterproof Outerwear: Investing in high-quality waterproof outerwear is a must during the monsoon season. A stylish raincoat, trench coat, or jacket made from waterproof materials like nylon or polyester is essential to keep you dry. Look for designs that not only offer protection from the rain but also add a touch of sophistication to your overall look. Brands like Hunter, Rains, and The North Face are known for their stylish and functional waterproof outerwear options.

Vibrant Rain Boots: Say goodbye to dull rain boots and embrace vibrant and colorful options. A pair of stylish rain boots can add a fun and playful element to your monsoon outfits. Look for brands like Hunter, Joules, or Burberry for their wide range of fashionable rain boot collections. Opt for designs with sturdy soles and excellent traction to ensure stability on wet surfaces. Don't be afraid to experiment with bold prints and patterns to make a fashion statement even in the rain.

Lightweight Fabrics: When it comes to monsoon fashion, lightweight and breathable fabrics are your best friends. Opt for materials like cotton, linen, or chiffon that dry quickly and keep you comfortable in the humid weather. These fabrics allow for better airflow and prevent you from feeling sticky and sweaty. Brands like Zara, H&M, and Mango offer a plethora of trendy clothing options made from lightweight fabrics, ensuring you stay stylish and comfortable during the monsoon season.

Playful Prints: Gloomy rainy days call for a pop of color and cheerful prints. Embrace bold and vibrant prints to uplift your mood and add an element of excitement to your outfits. Floral, tropical, or geometric patterns are excellent choices to inject some vibrancy into your monsoon wardrobe. Look for brands such as ASOS, Topshop, and Forever 21 for a wide selection of playful prints. Incorporate printed tops, dresses, or skirts into your ensemble to create a captivating and eye-catching look.

Stylish Umbrellas: Accessorizing with a stylish umbrella is both practical and fashionable during the monsoon season. Opt for umbrellas with sturdy frames and wind-resistant features to withstand gusty winds. Don't be afraid to explore unique prints, patterns, or even transparent designs that add a touch of flair to your overall look. Brands like Kate Spade, Fulton, and ShedRain offer a variety of fashionable and functional umbrella options that can complement your outfit and protect you from the rain.

Monochrome and Neutrals: Monsoon fashion doesn't always have to be about vibrant colors and bold prints. Embrace the elegance of monochrome and neutrals to create sophisticated and timeless looks. Opting for shades like black, white, gray, or beige allows for versatility and easy mix-and-match options. A monochrome outfit paired with statement accessories or a colorful umbrella can create a stylish and polished appearance even on rainy days.

Layering with Light Fabrics: Layering is a great way to add depth and dimension to your outfits during the monsoon season. However, it's essential to choose lightweight fabrics to prevent feeling weighed down. Opt for sheer cardigans, lightweight jackets, or oversized scarves made from breathable materials to create stylish layers that won't add bulk. Layering not only adds visual interest to your look but also allows for easy adjustment to changing weather conditions.

Monsoon Makeup: Enhance Your Natural Beauty in Rainy Weather

Rain-Proof Beauty: Essential Tips for Flawless Monsoon

Makeup:

The monsoon season brings with it refreshing showers and a cool breeze, but it can also pose challenges for your makeup routine. With the increased humidity and occasional rain showers, it's important to adapt your beauty routine to ensure your makeup stays intact and you look your best. In this article, we'll explore some essential tips and tricks to help you achieve a flawless and long-lasting monsoon makeup look.

Prep Your Skin:

Before applying any makeup, it's crucial to prepare your skin to withstand the humidity and potential moisture from the rain. Start by cleansing your face with a gentle cleanser to remove any dirt or excess oil. Follow it up with a lightweight, oil-free moisturizer that provides hydration without clogging your pores. This step will create a smooth canvas for your makeup application and help it last longer.

Lightweight Base:

In monsoon, it's best to opt for a lightweight base to avoid a heavy and cakey look. Instead of a full-coverage foundation, consider using a tinted moisturizer, BB cream, or a lightweight foundation with a natural finish. These products provide a lighter coverage, allowing your skin to breathe while still evening out your skin tone. Remember to choose formulas that are oil-free and long-lasting to combat the humidity. Blend it well using a damp makeup sponge or a foundation brush for a seamless finish.

Waterproof Formulas:

One of the key aspects of monsoon makeup is investing in waterproof products. Look for waterproof mascaras, eyeliners, and eyebrow products that can withstand moisture and rain showers. These formulas are designed to resist smudging and smearing, ensuring your eye makeup stays intact. Popular brands like Maybelline, Urban Decay, and Stila offer a wide range of waterproof makeup options that deliver both performance and style.

Minimalist Eye Makeup:

In monsoon, it's best to keep your eye makeup minimal and focus on enhancing your natural features. Opt for neutral and earthy tones like browns, taupes, and bronzes for a soft and natural look. Avoid heavy and elaborate eye shadow looks that can easily smudge in humid conditions. Instead, opt for a simple wash of color on the eyelids or define your eyes with a waterproof eyeliner along the lash line. Finish with a waterproof mascara that adds volume and length to your lashes.

Long-lasting Lips:

When it comes to monsoon makeup, long-lasting lip products are a game-changer. Swap your creamy and glossy lipsticks for matte or long-wearing lip stains. These formulas adhere to your lips and have a better chance of staying put throughout the day, even with rain and humidity. You can also try lip tints or lip stains that provide a subtle wash of color while being resistant to smudging. Remember to moisturize your lips before applying any lip product to keep them hydrated and prevent dryness.

Set Your Makeup:

To ensure your makeup lasts through the day, it's essential to set it with a setting powder or spray. Opt for a lightweight and translucent setting powder that helps control shine without adding extra weight to your makeup. Gently dust it over your T-zone and other areas prone to oiliness. Additionally, consider using a setting spray that helps lock in your makeup and adds a dewy finish. Look for a setting spray that specifically mentions long-lasting or waterproof properties.

Blotting Papers:

During the monsoon season, excess oil and sweat can make your skin look shiny. Keep a pack of blotting papers handy to absorb any excess oil throughout the day. Simply press the blotting paper onto your skin, focusing on areas like the forehead, nose, and chin. This will help freshen up your makeup and reduce unwanted shine without disturbing your foundation or concealer.

Minimal Powder Highlighter:

While a subtle highlight can add a beautiful glow to your face, it's best to keep it minimal during the monsoon season. Opt for a powder highlighter instead of creamy formulas to avoid any potential smudging or melting. Apply a small amount to the high points of your face, such as the cheekbones, bridge of the nose, and Cupid's bow, for a natural and radiant look.

Quick Touch-ups:

Carry a small makeup bag with essential touch-up products for quick fixes on the go. Include items like a compact powder, a travel-sized mascara, a lip balm or lip color, and a small pack of blotting papers. These items will come in handy to refresh your makeup throughout the day and ensure you look your best, rain or shine.

In conclusion, monsoon makeup requires a light and long-lasting approach. Prep your skin, opt for lightweight and waterproof products, and focus on enhancing your natural features. Remember to set your makeup, carry blotting papers for touch-ups, and keep your look minimal yet radiant. With these tips, you'll be able to achieve a flawless and resilient makeup look that can withstand the challenges of the monsoon season. Embrace the rain with confidence, knowing that your makeup will stay intact and enhance your natural beauty.

Don't let the rain dampen your fashion spirit. Embrace monsoon fashion and makeup to look chic even when it's pouring outside. From waterproof outerwear to vibrant rain boots, there are numerous trends and brands to explore. Remember to choose lightweight and waterproof makeup products, while keeping your look minimal and fresh.
